Dear Community,

The FSCA would like to take a moment to reflect on the events that occurred this day 19 years ago. As the years between us and those terrible events begin to stretch out further behind us, for many of us it still feels like it was only yesterday. For this reason, we pause to remember as a nation, and as a community, because no matter how many years may pass we have all made that solemn promise to never forget. To never forget all those who lost their lives too soon. We have promised to never forget the terrible scenes from that day etched into our memories when the towers were struck and fell the morning of September 11th 2001. We have promised to never forget all those who rushed to help people they had never met. We honor all those who continue to feel the effects of that day, even as the years go on. We continue to mourn the loss, but also to be grateful for all the sacrifice and service we saw that day, and for years after, showing all of us as a nation, as a community, what we are as Americans. The FSCA honors all the civilians and service members affected by that day and continue our promise. We will never forget.

Sincerely,
Katherine Tarascio
President
